Re: B.C. Utilities Commission approves interim 6.3 per cent rate increase for ICBC Shame on B.C. Utilities Commission for approving an interim 6.3 per cent rate increase for ICBC. The shortfall should be made up entirely by those who create it. Drivers responsible for accidents should bear the entire cost of their poor driving. Drivers who are not responsible for accidents should not pay. By heaping more expense on safe drivers the Commission and ICBC perpetuate bad driving, and unjustly cause safe drivers to subsidize the deplorable bad driving habits of the careless, reckless people who jeopardize our life and limb. The Commission should deny the ICBC application, and cause the blame to be shouldered by only those responsible for accidents. Shame on the Commission for supporting - and financing - bad drivers in British Columbia.
