I would like to raise concern around the ongoing hikes in basic insurance for ICBC. I am a driver of 35 years without a claim and my insurance going up to offset those that abuse, or mis-management of the corporation is not acceptable. Being in corporate career we do not keep raising our prices to consumer without making hard choices from within first. ICBC continues to point outwards by raising rates to manage their problems. We are paying more than pretty much anyone in Canada, our neighbors beside us in Alberta pay less than half of what we pay. There has to be a point where ICBC needs to reward good driving behavior in substantial way vs. making good drivers pay more for poor driving behavior of others. That is not a me problem and should not have to pay more for it. It is clear that they have issues with repair costs, yet instead of fixing that problem it is ignored and just have consumer pay for it, that is wrong. Should be hard line in driving costs down not up.
