Dear British Columbia Utilities Commission,

I urge you to reconsider the proposal to build the Site C Dam. I have travelled my whole life all over this planet and never have I found anywhere to rival our vast great wilderness areas, the peace and beauty that are our birthright. If we continue to destroy our world -- what are we leaving behind for future generations? We need to encourage creative young minds, and invest our money in research on innovative non-destructive alternative energy technologies, not continue in our business as usual ways that are clearly not respectful or sustainable. I want to be proud to be a Canadian, to be able to say that we are a nation at the forefront of change and innovation towards a planet that is respectful of all forms of life. Thank you for your attention.

Sincerely,
Lynn De Caire
