Dear BCUC,

Thank you for reviewing the financial aspects of building the Site C Dam. This is what should have occurred ten years ago to provide an unbiased assessment of the project.

I have read that parts of one report - Deloitte - have been “blanked out” and am very concerned that the people of BC finally have the complete information they deserve because it is the people of BC who will be paying for this energy development.

While BCUC reviews the cost of the project itself, I am aware the cost of Site C will be so much more and have negative effects far beyond the dam being built.

Climate change, the environment, biodiversity, the health of our natural self-renewing systems such as our rivers, and the rights of indigenous people, and WATER itself, along with other energy technologies, have convinced me long ago to understand that Site C needs to be terminated (there are other choices).

I will be attending a public hearing, but not speaking.

Thank you once again.

Collen Campbell
